

Introducing Magellan

A new name in contemporary, traditional cruising

The arrival in 2015 of sleek, contemporary Magellan heralded a new dawn in ex-UK, no-flying cruising, and a welcome addition to the CMV fleet of traditional ocean-going cruise liners. Sailing from her home port of the London Cruise Terminal at Tilbury, Magellan brings a touch of contemporary chic to the traditional welcome and friendly warmth that have been the acknowledged hallmarks of the CMV cruise experience over many years.

Welcome Aboard!

At a little over 46,000 tonnes and over 200 metres in length, fully stabilised and air-conditioned Magellan is larger than her 'small-ship' fleet-mates, but thanks to the beautiful layout of her public areas, the tasteful décor and of course the presence of the friendly, welcoming crew and CMV cruise staff, she retains the sense of tradition and intimacy of the line – and of course, with a passenger complement of around 1,250, she is still dwarfed by the cruising world's 'mega-vessels', which can arrive in port with as many as 6,000 folk aboard!

Originally built in 1985, and refitted at a cost of $50 million as recently as 2010, Magellan is a thoroughly modern, bright and airy, and supremely comfortable 'home from home'. Passenger accommodation is arranged on nine spacious decks served by eight lifts, wide corridors and stairways. Extensive teak decking adds to the sense of spaciousness, and in addition to the extensive outdoor areas, there are several beautifully appointed lounges boasting panoramic picture windows – perfect for taking in the views on the scenic cruises, or enjoying the light on days at sea.

Two beautifully appointed dining rooms, the Waldorf and the Kensington, as well as a less formal buffet-style bistro, which offers indoor and outdoor dining, vie for your custom, and there are three lounge bars and three deck bars, in which to while away a convivial hour or two. Other on-board amenities include a Night Club, Casino and the magnificent, multi-tiered Magellan Show Lounge, while for the energetic and body-conscious, Magellan offers a marvellous, beautifully appointed wellness centre, gym, pools and Jacuzzis. A well-stocked shopping gallery, Internet centre and library can also be found on board.

Spotlight on Magellan

- Exclusively for adults – like all CMV vessels – Magellan is a 'child-free' ship, although bookings are accepted from family members who are aged 16 and over
- Superb, contemporary amenities, including a Spa and double-width walk-round indoor promenade
- Magellan's friendly, attentive crew ensure the CMV traditions are maintained
- Excellent dining in a choice of restaurants and first-class entertainment, especially in the impressive Magellan Show Lounge, bring each day to a memorable close Great News for Single Travellers - Superior Cabins and Superior Savings!

Some 150 Superior Inside and Ocean View twin cabins (Grades 3 and 9) have been set aside for the occupancy of solo travellers, at a supplement of 25% of the single fare - lessening the cost for solo travellers on single folk. This, together with a special singles 'Welcome Aboard' Cocktail Party and other special solos events, make Magellan the perfect choice for single travellers.

Life on board Magellan by relaxed day...

Your floating 'home from home' is not only equipped with a full range of facilities to keep you occupied during long passages at sea, but that there are also plenty of places in which to rest, relax and get away from it all.

Each day of your wonderful holiday, the Cruise Director and the team will provide a full programme of entertainment and activities, from light-hearted quizzes to fascinating port lectures and talks from guest speakers on a variety of topics, from exercise classes to dance instruction, the chance to learn a new skill from an on-board craftsperson, to improve on an old one, or to take part in a friendly Bridge competition in the Nansen Card Room. Full details are published in the Daily Bulletin delivered to your cabin, and you can choose to join in or not as you wish.

Indeed, the greatest pleasure of a cruise holiday can be choosing to do nothing other than to curl up with a good book in a quiet corner of the Livingstone Library, or to soak up the sun's rays on an Amundsen Deck lounge. Life on board Magellan is all about joining-in – or not joining-in as you wish – the choice, and the pleasures, are all yours.

Wellness & Beauty

Magellan is especially well equipped for those looking to combine the relaxing joys of life at sea with a little gentle – or even not-so-gentle – exercise and some well-deserved pampering.

For the more energetic, the three pools and Jacuzzis beckon, and the gym is well equipped with both free weights and fitness machines. Make yourself a programme and set yourself a target for the cruise – who knows, you might even be able to resist the effects of the inevitable calorie-fest you'll encounter in the ship's restaurants – though who can resist the temptation, once exercise is done, of a cocktail or fruit juice in the Lido or Neptune bars?

The beautifully appointed Jade Wellness Centre provides the highest levels of health and beauty treatments, from qualified experts as well as hairdressing services.

On-board Services

There is plenty of time to browse in The Mall, Magellan's shopping centre, for both essentials and souvenirs of your cruise, and there's the chance to keep in touch with home in the on-board internet café. Of course, the Reception on Baltic Deck is manned 24 hours a day to answer any questions you may have, and in the unlikely event that you need their services, there is also a fully equipped Medical Centre on board.

Shore Excursions

Whenever Magellan arrives in a new port of call, there are opportunities to explore in the company of friendly, professional tour guides, on organised shore excursions that will help you make the most of your stay in each destination. Full details and prices are supplied well in advance of departure, for those wishing to plan and budget early, although there are nearly always places available up to a few days prior to arrival in any given port – perhaps you'll be inspired by a guest lecturer to explore a particular aspect of a destination, having attended a port-talk on board. There's nothing more exciting, following arrival, than descending the walkway onto the quayside to board a waiting coach to begin a new adventure in another of the world's most colourful and fascinating corners.

Of course, it's always possible to step ashore to explore under your own steam... or even to stay aboard to enjoy the atmosphere of a day in port, should you choose – as ever, it's up to you!

However you decide to spend your time, magnificent Magellan and her crew will ensure each day is more memorable than the last.

...and by glittering night

When evening comes, with the sun beginning to set – and on most of these cruises there will be no shortage of magnificent, balmy sunsets to enjoy – Magellan puts on a different cloak, ready to entertain and delight until late into the night.

Begin the evening by enjoying a pre-dinner cocktail in a choice of three welcoming bars on Magellan Deck, perhaps meeting up with new-found friends in the Captain's Club, Churchill's or ritzy Sinatra's, before heading to dinner. Of course, not every evening is a formal one, and as an alternative to the Waldorf or Kensington dining rooms, you can always enjoy a lighter meal in the indoor section of Raffles.

Following a delicious meal in convivial surroundings, you might take your seat in the magnificent Magellan Show Lounge for the sparkling performance by the ship's troupe of accomplished entertainers or special guest artistes, or head back to the quieter corners of a bar for a nightcap. Let the pianist serenade you in Sinatra's, head to Casino Royale for a flutter, or to watch others trying their luck, then if the stars are out, take a final turn on deck. Dedicated night owls are catered for on board Magellan, with the chance for them to head to Scott's to dance the hours away, or to enjoy a midnight snack in the Captain's Club.

When the evening's finally done, retire to your comfortable cabin, ready for another day's adventures tomorrow.

Dining on Magellan – always a pleasure!

As you'd expect, there is an equally wide range of options when it comes to meal times on board Magellan, whether outdoors in Columbus Deck's informal Raffles Bistro – a popular choice on balmy days – or in one of two more-formal indoor dining rooms, the Waldorf and Kensington, both located on Amundsen Deck. While it's always difficult to adhere to calorie-counting on-board ship, there are always 'Healthy Options', from which to choose on board and Magellan's chefs will prepare dishes in accordance with special diets, with prior notification. Wherever you choose to take your meals, you will enjoy delicious cuisine prepared by the ship's skilled chefs, served by friendly, attentive waiters, and accompanied by your choice from the ship's extensive and reasonably priced wine list. During each longer cruise there will be a Captain's Welcome and Farewell Party, as well as special dinners, themed according to Magellan's location on the face of the globe.

Of course, all meals on board Magellan, including afternoon tea and cakes, are included in the great value cruise prices.

First-class Entertainment

One of the great pleasures of cruising – Magellan-style – is being able most evenings to enjoy the performances laid on in the magnificent two-tiered Magellan Show Lounge, a wonderful venue that will play host to a variety of talented artists – singers, dancers, musicians and comedians – who will deliver first-class entertainment throughout each cruise. Choreographed by the Cruise Director and the team, each special evening will showcase the talents of established performers and new faces, and during each voyage, you might find yourself dazzled by selections from the great musicals, themed evenings – often linked with the destination in which you find yourself – mesmerising magic and illusion and breathtaking dance displays. With such a talented on-board troupe, and with a wide and varied programme planned, there will be something for everyone on each of the cruises.

“ The entertainment was of a very high standard throughout the ship, which was very much enjoyed. The meals and restaurant service were again, of a very high standard, as was the cabin house keeping. ”

Category JS: Junior Suite

On any cruise, especially those of more than a few days' duration, you'll want to be assured that your chosen cabin is much more than a 'bed for the night', and that you can look forward to a good night's sleep and some 'home-from-home comforts'.

When it comes to accommodation, sleek Magellan offers a wide choice of spacious, individually controlled air-conditioned cabins, all of which offer private facilities with shower, flat-screen TV with local and satellite channels (reception allowing), in-house movies, music channel and a fascinating 'Bridge Cam' giving a Captain's Eye view of the passage. Other amenities include a generous bathroom pack, which is replenished regularly, complimentary pool/deck towels, hairdryer and personal safe. Depending upon your preference, the cabins range from the clean, bright and comfortable to the simply luxurious.

Cabins have a variety of twin and double beds, with upper berths for three- and 'friendly four' -sharing passengers. All Ocean View cabins feature a picture window, with the following exceptions: eight Category Six and ten Category Seven cabins, all forward cabins on Decks Four, Five and Six. These cabins feature a porthole.

Cabins are looked after by attentive stewards, who can also arrange Cabin Breakfast Service, Room Service (10.00-midnight) and for an additional charge Laundry and Ironing services. The cabin stewards will go out of their way to ensure that your Grand Voyage is as enjoyable as possible, contributing immensely to your on-board comfort.
